

Bernstein Public Policy specialises in complex political decision-making processes and regulatory issues. It is part of the Bernstein Group, which consists of several partner-led consultancies focused on special communications situations, transformation processes and political advocacy.

In Brussels we are looking for

Interns Public Policy (m/f/d)

for a 3-5- months internship

If you seek to experience a challenging work environment in the centre of the European Union, enjoy complex political and regulatory issues and are not afraid to go the famous extra mile for our common success, Bernstein Group is the right place for you to build on your academic qualifications acquired in political science, EU studies, public administration, law, economics or related fields.

What do we offer?

During a minimum period of 3 months, you will receive valuable insights into and gain practical experience in public affairs consulting, while developing key competences for the job market. We provide challenging tasks across a wide range of topics, an autonomous role within our team and competitive remuneration.

Who would we like to work with?

For our Bernstein team in Brussels, we are looking for team players who have the openness to learn from their environment and its diversity on a daily basis. We see ourselves as action takers with an independent, reliable, and goal-oriented way of working.

- Integrity, perseverance, and empathy are values you share.
- You thoroughly understand and have a pronounced interest in the EU institutions and decision-making.
- You have a general understanding of the German federal governance system.
- You can express yourself excellently in German and English. Additional languages will be considered a plus.
- You have strong research and analytical skills.
- You are motivated and happy to show initiative as well as ownership. You can work independently and diligently.
- Enrolment in a university programme and nationality of EU/EEA Member State mandatory.

Do you enjoy the following tasks?

- Research and analyses of political, economic, and social topics and procedures, including media coverage.
- Support in developing public affairs strategies and execution.
- Coverage of relevant meetings and conferences.

The deadline for applications is 29 July 2022.

No two pieces of amber or "Bernsteins" are the same. They form differently and are created from completely different resins. Following this example, we would also like to assemble diverse ones for a radiant structure. Therefore, we are looking forward to diverse applicants who would like to become part of the Bernstein team with great enthusiasm.

Your application will be handled confidentially and with discretion.
